

When small stations are bought by media giants, they no longer serve the local area. I know what I'm talking about because Skowhegan Maine had four radio stations. They were bought by Clear Channel and moved to Augusta. Somerset County now has NO radio stations. Now there is no work for locals, no local coverage, no local public service. Please do not allow the media monopoly to expand. In fact, I would like to see the current regulations changed to break up the already existing media stranglehold. The radio dial has little variety now. It is very bleak and does not serve the listeners.
